

Thinking slowly.

It's an art when writing in a script as slow as this one. I even forgot a the last word in the first sentence. Do you remember the thought you had a minute ago? (Writing is really slow)

Should I test for ADHD? Or maybe Dementia? Are healthy humans capable of remembering such a long time, even though nothing unexpected happened.

Went to the loo and forgot what I was was writing about. A year ago I brewed the Mead I'm drinking. It's perfectly clear and delicious. My plan is to brew some wine out of maple syrup.

Read the title of this text. No idea what I was planning for this